Mexico and the Czech Republic share a solid base of long-term cooperation in trade and a variety of other areas. Both countries are experiencing a boom in innovation and technology, including Industry 4.0, Life Sciences, Engineering, Nanotechnologies and many others. This represents a unique opportunity to create new partnerships for research and carry out entrepreneurial endeavours in high-tech areas with high added value. The event aims to kick off a new broader dialogue and to present concrete examples of R&D and technology compatibility between Mexico and the Czech Republic and to promote new possibilities for mutual cooperation.

The event will present the general framework of possible support, examples of bilateral projects and research activities of companies and institutions, personal experiences of Mexican researchers and experts in innovative fields inside the Czech Republic and overall experiences of the shared innovative ecosystems.
