Passage 1

Mountain climbing is a sport enjoyed around the world. It can range from simple trail hiking to more difficult rock and ice climbing. Professional climbers prefer folded mountains. These are some of the world's tallest mountains. The Himalayas are folded mountains. They contain all but one of the 14 tallest mountains on Earth. Fault-block Mountains often have high cliffs. This provides climbers with special challenges. Volcanic mountains tend to be easier to climb. However, they attract climbers of all skill levels because of their unique lands and beautiful scenery.

66. According to the passage, the majority of the world's tallest mountains

- 1) are located in the Himalayas
- 2) are always covered by ice
- 3) have been formed by volcanoes
- 4) provide an opportunity for trail hiking
